Tell Me You Still Care: James and Liz Tynessa

Three years after having their child, James and Liz still can't quite get it together. Although the chemistry is still there, they both try to overlook it, thinking it will eventually fade away.

Now in a ten-month relationship with the beautiful Delilah, James feels in his heart that she will be the one to replace the love he has for Liz. However, it's not as easy as James thought it would be. For some reason, he can't seem to get over Liz, and he struggles with telling her that he's moved on. Will Delilah be able to handle keeping her relationship a secret from someone who James claims to not have feelings for?

Dating outside her race wasn't at all on Liz's agenda until she meets the irresistible Rodrigo Santiago. Yet, there's one question. How will James feel about her possibly moving on with another man? Will he be okay with the mother of his child entertaining another man, or will James let his fear of Liz loving someone else cause him to ruin his own relationship?

Sometimes, it's better to say what's on your heart instead of trying to show it through actions. The words, I still care, may need to be spoken, especially in the case of James and Liz, who are so stubborn that they can't seem to see what's right in their faces.

OMG what the hell James has done it again.

Wow James is still in love with Liz despite the way he treated her and the love he has for his daughter Joy. James also has feelings for Delilah and trying to move on from Liz. Liz starts dating and seeing Rodrigo Santiago and she like him but she still had deep feelings for James after one night of passion Liz finds out she pregnant again by James. She called him over to her place to tell him about the pregnancy. He finally admitted he was seeing someone he wanted her to meet his daughter with Liz his permission. Liz feelings some kinda of way about Delaih meeting her daughter. Rell and Sharonda are back together she has five kids he willing to marry her and love her kids as well. Meanwhile James has a big dilemma he has two women pregnant Liz the mother of his first child Joy who he still in love with because she rejected him after how he treated her during her pregnancy he fell for her but she wouldn't believe him that hurt him deep by being rejected by her he was known for being a player and a womanizer break women heart she refused to be treated that way. Then he meets Delaih at club he was really feeling her she wanted to meet his daughter and her mother but he wasn't completely over Liz he definitely was in denial he cared about Delaih he was trying to move on when Liz said she was dating someone he felt some kinda way about that. James dilemma is he has both women pregnant how is going to handle his responsibility Delaih is thru with him hurting her and the trust is gone. She lost best friend Greg behind James jealous rage and who will he choose. It definitely has to be a part 2 to this book . Please don't leave us hanging like that what the hell.
