Great collection of classic Garwood

These were some novels Ms. Garwood wrote in the 1980s but, since they're period pieces, they hold up beautifully. All 3 of the stories were enchanting.

This author's books are always very sweet and slightly wacky. I love them! The MC, Madelyne, is loving and brave, but is congenitally illogical. Dizzingly so. Her partner is touched by the depths of her emotions and loves the positive impact she has on everyone and everything around her. He loves her despite himself, at first, and wholeheartedly by the end. A feel good love story.

Awesome books

Volha says

Out of all three books I only read Lion's Lady this time. I had a taste for Victorian romance and I really enjoyed it. It's was actually funny at times. I loved the differences between Christina and Lyon. The way she was raised by Dakota Indians and the values that were instilled in her actually made her very desirable to Lyon. And Lyon being a spy and assassin for the crown made him the warrior she needed. The entire relationship was built on their differences and how despite them Lyon and Christina completed each other.

Very intriguing and adventurous read. I highly recommend it!

I read the Gentle Warrior many years ago, but I didn't want to reread it. I didn't finish Honor's Splendour. I didn't see the need for Bible Scriptures in the book. I couldn't read Lion's Lady after reading the Prologue. They were not to my taste.

I read all of her books - so good!
