Yesterday's Sins James R. Green

Charlie Brodski, retired USAF bomb expert turned successful cookery writer, lives the quiet life with his wife beside the sea in Denmark. So why would anyone plant a bomb under his car?

Recognising it as the work of a professional, Charlie asks for help from the people who set him up in his new life. But they want a favour in return: nothing much, just for him to kill a middle-aged widower who was training to be a priest in Rome. But that man is ex-copper, ex-criminal Jimmy Costello, who is on the run. Will Charlie's past catch up with him before he catches up with Jimmy?

Joan says

A convoluted plot that certainly lived up to it's name. Grabbed me from the start and was hard to put down as I wanted to know the outcome of this complicated narrative' Was there anyone without sin?
