[Siren Everlasting Classic ManLove: Erotic Alternative Paranormal Romance, M/M, shape-shifters, elves, sex toys, HEA]

Zuriel knows what people think about him. Hell, he'd made it his mission to give them the impression he cared about nothing more than sex. It wasn't the best reputation to have, but it was a lot better than getting his heart broken.

Then Dr. Spiro Araceli swept into his life and changed everything. Spiro looked right past his outward façade, saw through all of his insecurities, and offered him a chance that no one else had ever given him—a chance to be normal.

Spiro never wanted to lead his people, but when a curse takes him back to his family's home, he'll have no choice. With tragedy around every corner, his instincts tell him to grab his mate and run, but he has a responsibility to protect his people. When death comes knocking at his own doorstep, however, how will he choose between love and duty?

It's only 135 pages but it seems so long.

Plot-wise the book was fine but romance-wise it was a bit off. I expected Zuriel's story to be on par with Zavion's story at the very least (there were some similarities but not quite there). There wasn't that feeling of strong attraction between the two MC's in this book like the others of the series and it was a bit difficult to believe that Zuriel and Spiro were madly in love with each other.

Was okay.

This story had a hit of mystery to it. More so than any other of the series. I like that aspect a lot.

I would've liked to see a bit more character growth since they both suddenly got over their personal issues.

So happy for Zuriel! He and Spiro needed each other so much and didn't even know it. It's so perfect that Zuriel got mated to a psychologist. However, I didn't notice much of his psychoanalytic talents coming out though. It was definitely a star in the series. One of the best.

So disjointed. All over the place.

This makes little sense if you haven't read the other books in the series recently. We're expected to remember what the hell Zuriel is and where Spiro came from. Why don't these series books have an intro like on TV shows: "previously in moonlight Breed..."?

I'm so tired of shifter books where every guy has long hair. Most men don't have long hair. I don't like long hair on most men, partly because they don't take care of it but also because it just doesn't have the softness and bounce women's hair does. Plus there's no variety in styles. All these shifters have long blond hair or long black hair and they all look the same to me the way they're described, just like the cover of some trashy het romance. I keep picturing Fabio. Who am I kidding--these are trashy gay romances so I shouldn't be surprised but please, some originality would be nice.

A pleasure slave would be confident in going slowly since some of the greatest sex can be achieved that way.

The deaths are so obviously poison that it's so weird that they're all convinced it's not.

Why was Rissian's mate in on the meeting of the brothers but Zariel wasn't?

Rissian would have a much harder time (view spoiler) than that.

Almost decent peril. Nice angst. Sufficiently horrific past.
