Within the first hours of a planned fishing trip, Insurance Investigator Pepper Bibeau's vacation turns deadly.

Pepper's head is spinning over a marriage proposal from Homicide Detective Rick Janus, father of her 14-year-old son. A last-minute assignment to investigate questionable medical claims on two preteen sisters adds to the tension. Before she can relax, someone sends her tumbling into a storm-swollen river, a crude attempt to conceal a body. With a young girl's life at stake, Pepper must uncover an unlikely connection between an abandoned rifle and a litany of environmental complaints.

The rural county sheriff offers little support. Because his opinion of females in the work force is only too obvious, Pepper gathers her own clues in an attempt to solve the mystery behind a series of troubling events. But unearthing a killer may depend on her unbridled curiosity, and her ability to stay alive.

Judy Sheluk says

This was my introduction to Pepper Bibeau and author Gail M. Bagniet, and I thoroughly enjoyed it. A fast paced read with a satisfying ending, Bagniet does a nice job of fleshing out even the more minor characters, while managing to plant a few red herrings along the way. I've now added books 1-3 in the series, as well as her short story in Mystery in Paradise, a collection of short crime fiction, to my Want To Read shelf.

Laurie Hanan says

Pepper Bibeau came to the small town for a little camping R&R with her boyfriend while she investigated an insurance claim. Suddenly, the reader is pulled into a gripping, very realistic near-death scene as Pepper finds herself swirling through a frigid, raging river. Did she slip, or was she the intentional victim of attempted murder? Pepper must defy the local small town sheriff as she searches for the truth. A well written, action packed tale!

Sandra says

A life-threatening event and a string of questionable incidents plague Pepper Bibeau in this latest installment of the mystery series. Family secrets, hidden clues, and a County Sheriff with his own agenda present a formidable challenge in Pepper's quest to weed out a killer. This complex whodunit had me guessing till the end.

Gail Bagniet says

This is a stand-alone novel, the fourth novel in the Pepper Bibeau mystery series. Pepper has an insurance claim to investigate and a marriage proposal to consider during a week-long fishing trip with the father of her teenaged son.

Would it surprise you to hear that a life-threatening experience might be connected to her insurance investigation?
