A Time to Dance Michelle Stimpson

Mama B thought her life would return to normal, but when her nephew, Derrick, comes knocking on her door, she has to reconsider. Though she's not known for housing marital fugitives, she realizes Derrick is looking for more than a place to stay; he needs help finding his way back to God.

Of course, help is almost Mama B's middle name until Henrietta crosses the line with her accusations about Mama B's intentions with the recently widowed pastor. Mama B isn't looking for romance with either the pastor or her suitor, Dr. Wilson--but will love come looking for her?

Reading a Mama B novel is like sitting down with your grandmother. She's vivacious, witty, and full of wisdom. She's no push over - but she cares more about following Gods will than her own. So happy my fellow Christian Book Lover turned me on to Mama B!!

This is the second Mama B story I have read and I enjoyed both of them! I love the fact the author shows that

Great Story

Not a typical book I would read but I loved the first installment that I got for free and had to buy the second one and will be buying the rest of the series. Mama B is helping me With my faith the same way she helps her relatives. Great story but the lessons learned are even better!

Inspiring!

This book was an inspiration. Mama B never loses her faith. it was good to read a book that helped to reassure God's love and promise to His faithful and not so faithful children. I loved this book.

An awesome quick read. Everyone needs a circle that has a Mama B and a Mrs Ophelia. Prayer warriors and intercessors that are quick to pray, willing to help when they can ,but ain't afraid to tell you the truth. I loved that the characters were flawed but still saved older women. And Mama B was not to old nor religious to see others points of views about God and His ways. I really liked that Mama B and Mrs Ophelia were older ladies that were vivacious and in good health and enjoying life and friendships. I mean Mama B was salsa dancing, driving herself in her p t cruiser and dating at the age of 72. I liked how Mama B would lead Derrick & Twyla and even when she was correcting them she did it with love. Always to get them to see their responsibility in the situation. And even when she herself was wrong in a situation like the incident with Henretta and the flier, she wasn't to stubborn or self-righteous to go back and make it right. I wanna be just like them as I age still living and enjoying life with a little dash of Mother Pugh's "just put it out there and tell it like it is" truth telling.

Loving Mama B

I love Mama B, she says and think exactly what I'm thinking sometimes in regards to people but at the same time helps keep me focused on the word of God. Can't wait to read her next book and see how her and Frank's relationship develops.
