Don says

I was prepared for a super cheesy issue where R2 does a bunch of ridiculous stuff that he clearly wasn't capable of. Instead I got a very smart and clever story. Nice job!

Bianca says

R2 saves the day... Of course he does!

Who doesn't LOVE R2?!?!

Kami says

- Take a moment to just appreciate the cover. I love it! R2 surrounded by storm trooper corpses. Awesome!
 - I can't remember C3-PO getting captured, but it sounds like something that would happen to him.
 - This is one of the greatest comics I've ever read!! R2-D2 uses all sorts of tricks to take down the storm troopers! Ha!
 - A KX Security Droid makes an appearance!!! Hooray!
 - R2 is the real hero of Star Wars.

Spencer says

A fun little story, however the events kind of undermine the threat of the Empire and turns their fearsome force into a laughing stock for the purpose of what is ultimately a forgettable comic. As usual Salvador Larroca's art is horrible and offensive to anyone with eyes.

Joss says

Good to see R2 doing his thing. That was quite a fun read.

Evey Morgan says

¿Grapa protagonizada por R2 y 3PO? Maravilla.

Héctor Rodríguez says

El número más divertido de la historia.

Brandon St Mark says

I thought this was a really cool issue! R2D2 has always been my favorite of the duo, but as I get older I appreciate C-3PO more. I liked the banter in this issue a lot, and the Astromech manual parts were really cool, and helped to show how R2 is pretty unique for an astromech.

Raofa Ibrahim says

Is it because I didn't read the issue in months or is the issues are being way better than before? I'm liking it anyway

Steven Shinder says

Finally. Been waiting eleven issues for C-3PO to be rescued. It's not really clear what the timeline of events is like. How long was R2 out looking for C-3PO? How long was he being interrogated without giving any useful information? Does this take place before or after Luke and Leia were stranded on an island for three weeks? Having Luke show up doesn't clear things up. All we know is that this takes place after The Screaming Citadel since the droids are not present there. But it feels weird that the rebels were not so worried about them during that arc. Once again, human faces look bad. But it was fun seeing R2 go through all the trouble to save 3PO. And funny to hear Vader observe that the astromech has learned good piloting skills from someone. The Empire seems pretty useless here though.
