Obedient Slave

Kim Dare

Obedient Slave Kim Dare

Drew's had a crush on Matthew ever since they started working at Pendragon Bay Hotel. They may have been friends since day one, but he's never been able to inspire a desire for more, from the other man—not until Matthew gets a promotion.

For years it's been the unofficial company tradition for any newly promoted employee to have another member of staff act as their "slave" for a week—waiting on them hand and foot and following their every order.

Drew's more than happy to be Matthew's slave. Unfortunately, for some reason, Matthew doesn't seem quite so enthusiastic about the idea—not even when he finds out they come with a free supply of blow jobs.

'Obedient Slave' made me smile almost from page one. The idea of giving a week's service to a recently promoted resort employee is hilarious – having the sub who is giving himself want more and the Dom receiving the 'gift' resist because he thinks it isn't real makes for a great setup and lots of suspense, not to forget the growing sexual tension between Drew and Matthew.

Drew is desperate to attract Matthew's attention as more than a friend. He is not an experienced sub, but he wants to be dominated by the man who has just been promoted. Luckily, a long-standing tradition helps him come closer to what he wants. I loved his manoeuvres and the way he topped from below – all of which was needed to get through to the stubbornly resistant Matthew

Matthew is one stubborn character – but I have to admire his ability to resist temptation until he knows that things are right for both him and Drew. He has wanted more from his friend for a while, but is not willing to just 'play'. He is very serious about D/s with Drew and the thought of playing for a week only to have to give it all up afterwards tortures him. His attempts to control himself are admirable – but I was very relieved when he finally gives in!

If you like reading about hot men with one of them trying to resist giving in and the other doing his best to make him give in to temptation, you will probably enjoy this story.

Steamy kinky m/m romance about a guy who works at a gay resort. He doesn't realize that someone is supposed to serve as his "slave" for a week when he gets promoted...

It was fun to see Matthew realize that Drew was all for real and not just for show because of the job promotion. They are such a perfect fit for each other.

I just have a thing for feisty, strong...dare I say...bratty...subs. And nobody writes them like Kim Dare. This story had me smiling all the way through.

Seregil says

too short - I barely understood the setting and the characters when it was already ending

Matthew and Drew are friends, who both work at a kinky resort. Matthew has just gotten a promotion, which he receives confirmation of by way of a nearly naked Drew, handcuffed and kneeling on the porch, holding the letter in his hands. Matthew is confused by the cuffed appearance of the man he's wanted as a sub for real for more than a year. Why is he here? Drew is following a resort tradition, one in which anyone receiving a promotion gets a "slave" for a week to usher in the new position. Matthew can't handle it. He wants Drew, his coworker and his good friend, for real and for keeps. Drew playing with him is NOT anything he will tolerate.

Despite Matthews best efforts to push Drew away, Drew is nothing if not persistent. He wants Matthew as his Dom, his lover and his friend. He is a bratty sub, for sure (and so adorable). I could picture him doing all the boring paperwork wearing just his leather thong. Can Drew convince Matthew it's real? Even more, can he convince Matthew to just take a chance? Drew takes a huge chance in public to see if he can be convincing.

This is a sweet story, and it's always so interesting to read of a Dom who questions things. Not his ability, but his reception. I really liked Matthew, and Drew is just my kind of character. So cute.

A classic Kim Dare story-light and enjoyable, with just enough character depth to draw you into the story. As is usual for Dare, the story is driven by (good) BDSM. An enjoyable read, as always.

Matthew has just received a promotion to assistant shift manager at The Pendragon Bay Hotel. When he finds his friend Drew waiting submissively at his feet, he discovers that the hotel tradition for newly promoted employees to receive a "slave" for the week is alive and well. Matthew is embarrassed and not sure what to do with his new submissive, but he tries to ignore Drew and get back to work. It's not until he realizes that Drew happily volunteered for this service that he starts to believe that this is more than just a prank. I thought this was a really cute short and I liked it even better than the first story. I really liked Matthew and Drew was very sweet as well. A nice addition to this series.
