(Grades K and Up) The teacher at the Ant Hill School wants her students to be prepared - for everything! One day, she teaches her students what to do if a "dangerous someone" is in their school. Unfortunately, in the world we now live in, we must ask ourselves the essential question: What options do I have for survival, if I ever find myself in a violent intruder event? "I'm Not Scared I'm Prepared!" will enhance the concepts taught by the ALICE Training Institute, and make them applicable to children of all ages in a non-fearful way. By using this book, children can develop a better understanding of what needs to be done if they ever encounter a "dangerous someone."

Oh, Jesus Christ, have you really let us sink this far?

For those of you who haven't yet figured it out, "dangerous someone" is the PG-translation of "active shooter." So far in 2018 (as of February 18th), there have been roughly eighteen school shootings (Yes, in forty-nine days, eighteen people have gone to places where children are supposed to be protected and have tried to or have successfully murdered them with guns. Wonderful, isn't it? Our second amendment, hard at work!). Have we really managed to sink so low that we are now teaching two and three-year-old kids that they're responsible for fighting off a school shooter? This perpetuates a culture where gun violence is not something to be fixed by revision of laws, but by placing blame on certain groups. Instead of having common sense gun control, we as a country have targeted minorities, the mentally ill, and now CHILDREN. This has to be stopped.

I cried when I read this book. I read this book because I went to ALICE training. I work at a community college and I worry about active incidents every day. I got this book because the local law enforcement that did the training recommended it. Now, I need to convince my husband that we need to read this to our 8 and 10-year olds.

What a PERFECT topic of a book by Julia Cook! So glad she covered this topic, as many kids do get nervous and upset around the topic of an intruder in a school. I guess this book would work best if your school uses the ALICE plan/method, but even if your school doesn't, it's a great idea to start the conversation, and have a book that makes it approachable for kids. Once again, thank you Julia Cook!
