The Sky is the Limit is a children's book that seeks to inspire elementary age children to believe in themselves and also to instill a love of learning. Taking inspiration from and dedicating the book to her father, who had worked on the Lunar Module Project prior to their move to Georgia, Kim shared that she hopes that The Sky is the Limit is the kind of book that parents and children can read over and over, much like The Little Engine that Could inspired earlier generations. The book is diverse and inclusive. It encourages discussions on vocabulary, individuals with challenges, mentors and even naysayers. Throughout the book Kim and Toni try to convey to your children to shoot for the stars and aim for the sky. They love the whole book, but their favorite part is the ending... because as we adults all know... The Sky is not the Limit!!!
